Juvenile Impact Program

- Implemented by the Frisco PD in August 2007
 - Targets youths:
 - Between the ages of 10 and 18
 - Become positively involved in the criminal justice system
 - At a time where early intervention is most influential
 - Brings parents and youths together when that relationship may be strained
 - The family unit is informed about consequences
 - Youths are empowered with information and support to help them move away from delinquent conduct before incarceration
 - Hands on interaction with the youth and parents
 - Educates juveniles and their parents about the possible consequences through presentations by:
 - Law enforcement
 - Juvenile Justice Personnel
 - Incarcerated youths in a Texas Youth Commission (TYC) Halfway House

The program is available not only to court-ordered participants, but to any family concerned about a child's conduct
